16 VOGEL 1537 m
Lies at the south-eastern end of the Julian Alps and is a high-altitude ski resort within the Triglav National Park. A modern gondola-style cable car carries you to a height of 1537 metres above sea level. At this altitude you can enjoy a breathtaking view of the Bohinj basin ringed by a chain of mountains running from the Julian Alps (dominated by Mt Triglav) to the Karavanke range and the Kamnik-Savinja Alps. In summer Vogel is an excellent starting point for walking tours of medium difficulty. Alternatively the well maintained mountain paths are ideal for recreation or a walk among the mountain flora and fauna. The above map merely indicates possible routes. We recommend to climbers and walkers that they provide themselves with guides and special climbers' maps. The cable car operates every day from 8.00 am to 6.00 pm and in the main summer season from 7.00 am to 7.00 pm. The Orlove Glave chairlift also operates during the summer season.

25 ANTHILLS
A five-minute walk from the lower station of the Brunarica lift brings you to a large number of anthills. Perhaps you have forgotten what a real anthill with big ants looks like? In the spring many Alpine plants can be observed along the way. On the way back you can stop for refreshments at the Merjasec mountain hut, open all year round.

26 LOPATA VIRGIN FOREST
The descent from the Ski Hotel to Lopata, passing traditional log cabins along the way, takes just under half an hour. At the edge of the forest it is not hard to find the old circular trail marked by stylised buttercup symbols which was laid out in 1988 and later abandoned. In the forest, which has conserved its original essence thanks to its isolation and inaccessibility, many typical features of a high mountain forest are to be found. This is a karst landscape close to the most distinctive points of contact between the cold Alpine north and the mild Mediterranean at the watershed between the Sava and Soča rivers, between the Adriatic and the Black Sea. The Mediterranean influence brings species that thrive under warm conditions to the often sunny slopes, while the northern influence brings species used to the cold, frequent rainfall and large quantities of snow. The circular trail, including a few stops at interesting points, takes an hour. The full excursion (including getting there and getting back) takes two hours. We recommend asking the cable car operators for information about the trail. Don't forget your camera!

27 PARAGLIDING
Lying at 1535 metres above sea level Vogel is an excellent point from which to try paragliding. The drop down to the valley is 1000 metres and a modern cable car will carry you up to the take-off point. Paragliders usually start at Orlove Glave and then descend towards Ribčev Laz.
Those who wish to try tandem paragliding or to hire paragliding equipment should call Pac Sports or Padalski Klub Bohinj.
